Cornell Crew The "Dark Horse"

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Boston, Mass., May 9.—Cornell loomed as the "dark horse" as the crews of Cornell, Pennsylvania, Harvard and Technology rested on their oars in preparation for the varsity race in their first quadrangular regatta late today.

The Ithacans have been slightly less impressive than the other crews in the workouts, yet observers noted many good points. The start will be just below the temporary bridge at St. Mary's street. The finish will be opposite the Union Boat Club near the West Boston bridge.

The Freshman race was scheduled to start at 4 p. m., the Junior Varsity at 4:45 and the Varsity at 5:30. A high wind was sweeping down the Basin this forenoon and indications were that all races will be postponed half an hour to await the closing of the day bringing a drop of the wind.

Pennsylvania Varsity appeared the favorite a few hours before the race. The Penn outfit was regarded as a "heavy crew" in great condition and full of enthusiasm. Tech's Varsity was crippled by the sickness of one of its important men amidships.

Rice Case Goes To Grand Jury

Case of Maurice H. Rice, Whose Car Struck and Killed Frederick Van Wageningen, Will Be Sent to Grand Jury—Coroner Conner Announces Case Closed.

A further hearing was held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock before Coroner Conner in the matter of the death of little Frederick Van Wageningen, who was struck by the car of Maurice H. Rice on April 18, on Hurley avenue, and at the conclusion of the hearing the coroner announced that the case was closed, that after he had opportunity to look over the testimony he would arrive at his decision and announce his findings.

District Attorney Traver stated at that time that the case was completed as far as witnesses were concerned and the testimony taken before the coroner warranted the case being taken before the present grand jury. He proposed to submit the case to the members of the grand jury now in session.

At the adjourned hearing Friday afternoon, Claude C. Donahue was recalled to the stand and shown the map prepared by Judge Superintendant James F. Loughran, which had been amended since Mr. Donahue last testified. Since that time the driveway where the little boy is supposed to have been when hit had been added to the map. Mr. Donahue said he saw the Rice car and it was after the car had left the concrete that he saw an object fly. He did not observe the driveway in the day of the accident and could not tell the position of the boy in reference to the driveway at the time he was hit. He had not actually seen the boy hit. He saw an object fly through the air. When the car he was riding in was stopped at the scene the boy's body lay between the concrete and the sidewalk. He could not say the rear wheels of the car were off the concrete when the object was hit. He did not observe who drove the car.

William Van Kleeck, who drove the Donahue car, was called. He saw the Rice car. At that time his car was going about 15 or 20 miles an hour. He did not know how fast Rice was going. He did not see anything struck but saw the car as it left the roadway and ran up through the vacant lot. He stopped his car at the scene of the accident and saw the boy lying on the ground close to the sidewalk. He saw the car about four feet away from the boy. He saw a blood spot. He did not notice a car coming from the direction of Kingston at the time the Rice car swerved from the roadway. He stepped his car and took the mother of the Van Wageningen boy and another lady to the hospital. The child was picked up by Mr. Rice, who took him to the hospital. He did not see who drove the Rice car.

Walter Scott, who resides at 268 Lucas avenue, was called. He was driving with his wife out Hurley avenue that afternoon. He saw nothing of the accident. When he was coming in toward Kingston his wife was driving. She noticed a car and said there was a car with the man driving sitting on the wrong side of the car. As they came nearer they noticed that a small boy was behind the wheel in the driver's seat. Mr. Scott said their car was proceeding slowly at the time.

23 Drowned In Mississippi River Tragedy

Seventeen Passengers, Including Many Prominent Engineers of the South and Colored Crew of Six Are Drowned When Steamer Norman Capsizes.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Memphis, Tenn., May 9.—Twenty-three persons, 17 passengers and six negro members of the crew of the government river steamer Norman, were drowned in the sinking of the vessel here late Friday. It was disclosed today after an all night search for survivors, and a careful re-checking of the figures.

Among the passengers were some of the most prominent in engineering circles of the south, including Paul H. Norcross, formerly president of the Chamber of Commerce in Atlanta, and a widely known engineering authority.

The survivors of the ill fated vessel number 40, according to the check list of investigators and members of the rescue party.

Police announced today that no hope remained for the missing members of their party, and predicted that their bodies would be found when divers reached the vessel on the river bottom.

Shortly after dawn this morning professional divers started down into the water. Fifty-five feet beneath the surface lies the Norman. There, according to the belief of the police, lie the entrapped bodies of most of the victims of the river tragedy.

The belief prevailed that the divers will find the bodies of the drowned caught in the rigging of the vessel. The negro members of the crew are presumed to have been caught below decks with no chance of escape.

The death list was not put at 23 until after an extensive, all night search along the shore and at nearby farm houses for those who might have swam ashore and escaped.

The disaster occurred at Coahoma, 17 miles below Memphis, on the Mississippi.

The engineering party was returning from Cow's Island, where an afternoon session of the Engineering Society had been held, and all were in gay moods as they steamed up the Mississippi in the late afternoon sunlight.

There was music on board and much laughter and good spirits. Then the boat began to sway. The crowd on board, numbering more than 60 persons, rushed to one side.

The boat rolled back into place and then over to its other side. The crowd rushed across the deck. This time it kept on turning.

Over it went—on its side. Three times it turned in the water, eye witness said, and then shot down to its watery grave, 55 feet below.

Passengers of Toyo Maru Safe

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Tokyo, May 9.—Eighty passengers and thirty men on the Toyo Maru, reported lost in a storm off Sasebo Kyushu Island, on the coast of Japan, have been rescued, according to official word received here today.

All the passengers and crew of the vessel were safely landed on Kuroshima Island by another ship which sped to the rescue of stricken boat. The Toyo Maru was caught in a terrific storm off the coast on Thursday.

Destroyers searching for the vessel were unable to locate it or any sign of the persons on board, and it was believed all had been lost.

A London dispatch yesterday said 100 lives were reported to have been lost on the Toyo Maru in the storm.

Exhume Bodies Of 22 Infants

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, May 9.—Acting on six new complaints by kins folk, authorities moved today to exhume the bodies of some of the 22 infants said by records to have died in Mrs. Helena A. Geisen-Volk's infanterium on East 86th street during the sixteen months.

The woman, held in $25,000 bail pending a further examination, protests her innocence, says the infants died of natural causes.

An autopsy on the body of one infant, Robert Snyder, was to be made today to determine the cause of death. "Ineffectively, authorities have entered the cause as 'acute malnutrition.'"

Authorities said they have discovered this is the second "infantism" conducted by Mrs. Geisen-Volk.

Mrs. Geisen-Volk declared that the infants entrusted to her care all were sickly and had been sent to the "infanterium" almost as a last resort. She told police she was a nurse on the German army during the war and was the widow of a Prussian officer.

Rum Doings at Canadian Border

Daring Skippers of Niagara Booze Armada Prepare to Run the Contraband Through Lines of the Coast Guard and Customs Service.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Buffalo, N. Y., May 9.—Two hundred thousand dollars worth of Canadian booze, bought and paid for by Buffalo bootleggers, stands side tracked in the Canadian National railroad freight yards at Welland, Ontario, awaiting arrival of the rum armada to bear it across the boundary line.

Thirteen fleet rum cruisers, commanded by the most daring skippers of the Niagara booze fleet have been chartered to run the contraband through the lines of the American coast guard and customs service. Four of the cutters are due in Welland today. Canadian representatives and a syndicate expect to send them back to Buffalo heavily laden before the day is over.

Three docks have been built to accommodate the liquor armada. They are on the Welland river back of the Heceta Block, in the heart of the city. Three chutes have been erected from the top of the high bank to the docks. An army of liquor handlers stand marshalled in Welland awaiting the order to start the liquid gold on its way to the land of the national prohibition act.

This was the situation existent in Welland, newly established base of the Niagara frontier rum syndicate as disclosed by Canadian customs officials, bootleggers and Ontario temperance act inspectors and investigators.

Y. W. C. A. Drive Over $11,000

When the Y. W. C. A. campaign workers realized that in spite of the fact that they had more than reached their goal of the $8,500 budget their friends were still "standing by" and that nearly another $1,000 had been added to their building fund Friday evening, they fairly bubbled over with enthusiasm. It was one of the peppiest meetings of the week.

The special speakers Friday evening were Dr. George Benton Smith, the newly appointed superintendent of this Methodist District; Captain Everett Fowler, the Rev. J. Wilbur Tetley and Frank B. Matthews. All of the men were hearty in their praise of the splendid work done by the women of the city in this campaign and of the work and play among girls which is the big cause back of the campaign. Every man of them voiced the sentiment that this association is exceedingly valuable to our city because it is so valuable in every sense to the womanhood of the community and all expressed the hope that the Y. W. C. A. girls and women might have the longest for home of their own just as soon as it was to their best interest to do so.

As the enthusiasm of the workers still keeps up it is expected that there will be another splendid report to be turned in tonight when the final report is held at 6 o'clock. Judge C. D. B. Hasbrouck will be the special speaker tonight and every single worker is urged to be present and participate in the grand finale.

Colonials Need Sunday's Game

With New Jersey Professionals to Even Up Games—Home Run Hitter Will Be Given a Sulk Run.

The Kingston Colonials will have to make it a win Sunday afternoon against the New Jersey Professionals to get an even split of the games played thus far this season. Of course the local boys are confident of winning this game although the Jersey team is reputed to be travelling at a fast clip and ready to give the locals a tussle.

Judging from the work of the Colonials last week they have struck their stride and from now on they may be expected to connect with the ball and come out on the long end of the score in at least a majority of the games. In order to even up their average with that of the past few seasons they will have to take the next few games and the Deegan-Robins management is confident that this can be done.

Bill Danphnein, sensational twirler for the Professionals may start the game for the Jersey boys but the local club will be ready for him. If he can send him back home with one defeat chalked up against him they will have something to feel proud of for his reputation in his home town is a good one. Allowing both runs for the strong Orange Elks team last year was a record to be proud of and the Colonials will feel just as proud if they can send Bill back with a defeat. Manager Kent however has three other men to start in case they are needed.

Then too the Colonials have a mark to aim at. The first home run one out of the lot for a home run will be able to call at the New York Sample Shop on Wall street and claim of Manager Felt a silk dress for his wife or his intended wife. Mr. Felt has made this offer to the first man who hits out a homer.

The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Kingston's box-man has not been selected as yet but it is probable that Wicker will be selected to start the game.

Highest Flag In Kingston City

Will Float From Benedictine Hospital When Flag Raising on Sunday Afternoon Marks Beginning of Nation-wide Observance of Hospital Week.

Sunday will be the first day of the nation-wide celebration and observance of Hospital Week, and at the Benedictine Hospital the week's celebration will begin on Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock with a flag raising which undoubtedly will be largely attended by the general public who are cordially invited to be present.

The exercises will take place on the lawn in front of the hospital, from where the flag will be raised to the top of a new flagpole which surmounts the apex of the front elevation of the new building.

The Rev. Father Joseph B. Scully, pastor of St. Mary's Church, and president of the Benedictine Hospital organization, will preside at the exercises, at which the principal speaker will be Judge William D. Cunningham of Ellenville. The exercises will be simple but impressive. Music will be furnished by members of Kingston Local of the Musicians' Union. Following the blessing of the flag, it will be carried from the piazza at the front entrance to the hospital, from which the addresses will be made, along the lawn to a point directly below the flag pole, where the nurses will turn it over to a delegation of Boy Scouts, to whom will be entrusted the duty of raising the Stars and Stripes to their highest elevation within the city of Kingston.

The flag is the gift of Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus. The work of erecting the flag pole was completed Friday afternoon, by William J. Dwyer by whom it was contributed. The topmost point of the flag pole is more than one hundred feet above the level of the land on which the Benedictine Hospital stands. The knoll occupied by the Hospital is one of the highest points within the city or for a considerable radius beyond, and the hospital building itself overtops most buildings in the city, its lower levels being higher than the roof of the city hall. Because of its elevation, which commands an unobstructed view of the Catskill and Shawangunk Mountain ranges, the Benedictine Hospital can be seen for a long distance along every highway entering Kingston, and its flag will now be seen from many parts of Ulster county.

After the exercises the public is invited to visit the hospital. On Tuesday the celebration will be continued by the Benedictine baby party, which promises to be of unusual interest. The guests of honor will be the babies born at the Benedictine Hospital during the past two years. The Ladies' Auxiliary will help the Sisters and the nurses in the reception of the distinguished little party members, and a group picture of the tots will be taken on the lawn. The hospital is open to visitors from 2 to 5 p. m. The Benedictine baby party will be held from 3 to 4 p. m. The attention of visitors is particularly invited to the new equipment, the X-ray and fluoroscopic department, the school of nursing where the practical side of the most modern scientific nursing is taught, the diet kitchen with its adequate facilities for teaching the best approved menus to be served to patients, the nurses' home with its numerous home comforts provided for the nurses, and the numerous other new facilities whose recent addition establishes a new high standard of excellence among hospitals.

Hold Sergeant Exams May 18

The municipal civil service commission held an examination to make up an eligible list for the position of sergeant on the police force Friday evening at the city hall. The examination was said to be the stiffest ever given by a local board, and none of those who took the examination were able to make the required percentage to pass. For that reason the board decided to hold another examination on Monday evening, May 18, at the city hall.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

JOHN'S WATCH

John's daddy had gone away on a business trip. He had been very busy but before he started for home he found the time to go shopping for John.

John hugged his proud watch relations.

He bought him some books and—he bought him a watch.

Of course it was not a tremendously expensive watch, but what did that matter! It was a watch, a real watch, and a good watch, and it went far better than many of its more aristocratic and

Before he had always had to ask some one what the time was. If there didn't happen to be a clock around.

Now he would be able to tell himself.

Now there lived in that watch, just as there lives in every watch and clock, a set of Tick-Tock Twins. The Tick-Tock family is a large one and all the younger ones are twins.

The Tick-Tock Twins in John's new watch were quite excited to think that they were going to be owned by a boy of five and a half.

You know the Tick-Tock Twins all talk in just the same way. After all, that is natural enough. People in a family often talk alike, but particularly so do the members of the Tick-Tock family.

They say their own names after every other word they speak.

If they are saying it is a nice day they take turns in using the words to make up that sentence and after each one has used a word they use one of their own names. I shall tell you again how they do it.

"It-tick-tock-a-tick-nice-tock-day-tick."

Now they were talking about going to see John.

They had heard his daddy talking to the man in the shop when buying the watch and they could see that John's daddy was interested in getting a watch for John, which made the Twins decide at once that John must be very fine.

His daddy was so much interested in him.

They went along with the watch which was carried in John's daddy's pocket.

This is the way they talked.

"It-tick-wonder-tock-what-tick-John-tick-will-tick-be-tock-like-tick."

"It-tick-wonder-tock-too-tick."

"We-tick-both-tock-wonder-tick."

They had a pleasant journey.

They were wound up each night and at last they arrived at John's house, all the time having traveled in John's daddy's pocket.

John hugged his daddy very hard. In fact his daddy said:

"Not too hard, John, you may break something!"

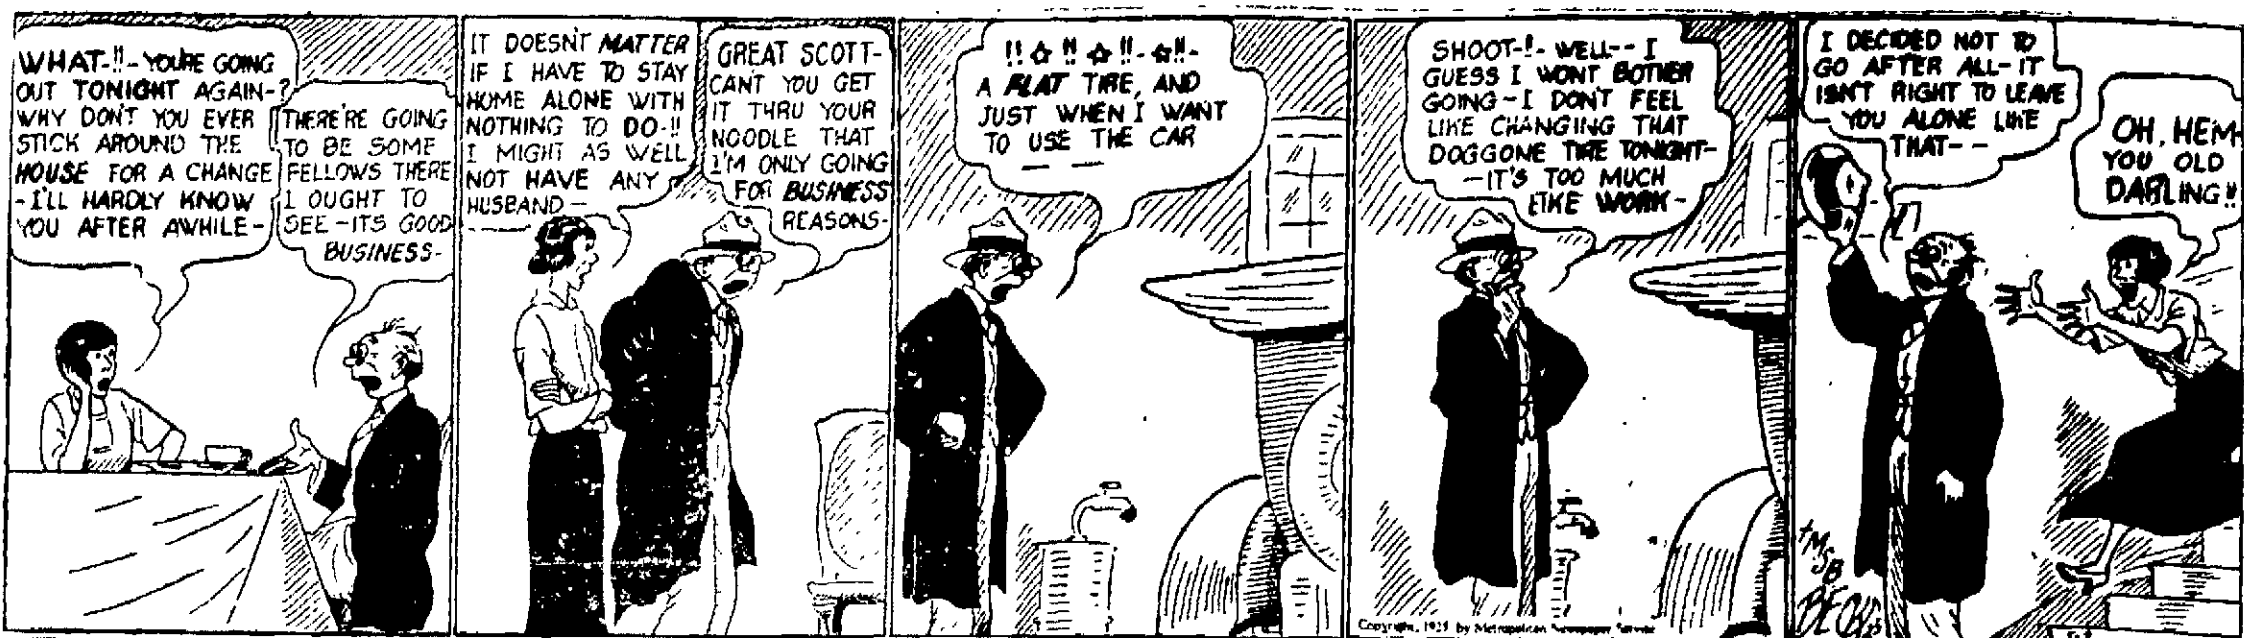

"What, daddy?" cried John excitedly.

For there had been something in the tone of his daddy's voice which had made John know that there was a special present somewhere on his daddy.

"Perhaps you can hear it," John's daddy said.

"A watch!" cried John at last.

ADMIRAL DE COIGNY, LEADER OF THE HUGUENOTS IN FRANCE WAS EAGER TO PLANT A PROTESTANT COLONY IN AMERICA AND SENT OUT AN EXPEDITION UNDER JEAN RIBAUT.

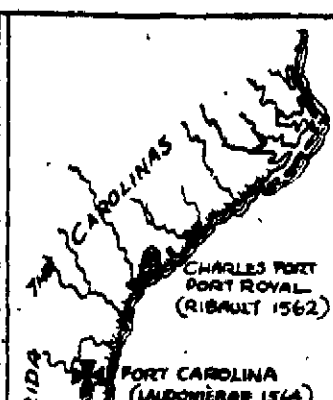

RIBAUT SOON RETURNED TO FRANCE TO GET SUPPLIES AND MORE COLONISTS. WHILE HE WAS AWAY THE SETTLERS BECAME DISCONTENTED AND PLANNED TO LEAVE THE COLONY. THEY BUILT A RUDE BOAT, ABANDONED THE SETTLEMENT AND SAILED FOR FRANCE.

IN 1564 RENÉ LAUDONNIERE WITH SEVEN SHIPS FILLED WITH HUGUENOT SETTLERS REACHED PORT ROYAL AND WAS SURPRISED TO FIND THE COLONY DESERTED. SAILING DOWN THE COAST TO FLORIDA LAUDONNIERE BUILT A TOWN ON THE ST. JOHN'S RIVER AND CALLED IT PORT CAROLINA. IN 1565 HE WAS JOINED BY RIBAUT.

WHEN THE SPANIARDS HEARD OF THE COMING OF THE HUGUENOTS THEY SENT SOLDIERS TO DESTROY THE SETTLEMENTS. LED BY PEDRO MENENDEZ THE SPANIARDS ATTACKED PORT CAROLINA AND PUT THE DEFENDERS TO DEATH. MENENDEZ LEFT A NOTICE ON THE SPOT WHICH READ 'I DO THIS NOTAS TO FRENCHMEN BUTAS TO LUTHERANS.'

MENENDEZ THEN BUILT THREE PORTS IN FLORIDA TO DISCOURAGE FURTHER FOREIGN SETTLEMENT. ONE OF THESE PORTS WAS THE CASTLE OF ST. AUGUSTINE, ON THE SITE OF THE PRESENT CITY OF THAT NAME.

DOMINIQUE DE GORGUES, A FRENCH HUGUENOT, HEARING OF THE OUTRAGE, RAISED A FORCE AT HIS OWN EXPENSE AND SAILED TO AVENGE HIS FRIENDS. IN 1568 HE WIPED OUT THE SPANISH PORTS, MASSACRED THE SPANISH SOLDIERS AND OVER THE SMOKING RUINS POSTED A PROCLAMATION. 'I DO THIS NOT AS TO SPANIARDS BUT AS TO ROBBERS AND MURDERERS. NOW DAY - ENGLAND AND SPAIN CLASH IN THE NEW WORLD.'

When we lose heart we should remember that the source of good fortune never diminishes or disappears. And that source forever remains within easy reach of every man.

VARIETY OF GOOD THINGS

Every little while some one asks for a recipe for Scotch short bread. It is too rich for daily food, but will be enjoyed occasionally; it is nice served with a cup of tea.

Scotch Short Bread.—Take two pounds of flour, one pound of butter, one-half pound of sugar and two beaten eggs, a grating of nutmeg and a teaspoonful of grated lemon peel. Mix and roll one-half inch thick. Prick with a fork and bake in a hot oven.

Breakfast Toast.—Melt three table-spoonfuls of butter in a frying pan. Cut bread into one-fourth-inch slices and cut each into squares. Lay these in melted butter. Beat four eggs well; add salt, paprika and pepper to season with one-half cupful of milk; pour over the bread. Cook until well-browned on the bottom, then turn each piece with a spatula and brown on the other side. Serve hot.

Arabian Ambrosia.—This sounds good enough for any occasion, but is a most simple and easy-to-prepare dessert. Measure two cupfuls of choice dates, wipe them carefully and remove the pits. Cut the dates into quarters and combine with one cupful of walnut meats coarsely chopped; add one tablespoonful of lemon juice and arrange the mixture in sherbet glasses; top with a spoonful of whipped cream, or marshmallow cream.

Fruitiness.—Beat two eggs and add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of softened butter and a teaspoonful of salt. Beat one cupful of raisins in two tablespoonfuls of orange or any fruit juice for an hour, then put through the meat grinder. Mix and sift three and one-half cupfuls of pastry flour; add the fruit juice, one teaspoonful of soda, two tablespoonfuls of milk, one teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-half teaspoonful of cloves. Mix all together and beat well; add the raisins and drop by teaspoonfuls on a baking sheet, two inches apart. Bake eight to ten minutes. This recipe makes about fifty cookies.

Paris Still Clings TO THE SINGLE FELT.

With the Parisienne back from the Riviera, and the spring sun beginning to shine over the faces of the beautiful city, new fashions are appearing. Among the new apparel to fashionable Paris is a hat.

The lunch hour at Ciro's is a natural chance for the first to reflect the change, which is particularly apparent in hats. First of all, in spite of the fact that the small felt shape still predominates and is worn in its greatest simplicity by the smartest women, its shape is decidedly fading away from the scene. Bizarre turned on either in front or at the back, close against the crown or softly curved, form the basis of the majority of them. So far straw is only timidly appearing, but when it is seen, it is usually developed in very simple tailored shapes, with softly rounded square crowns, banded and bordered with velvet or directly trimmed with flowers.

Speaking of flowers, one of the most attractive uses of them is to hold the brim of a soft felt hat, in a mass of green, with a single little rose of soft pink and white, hardly larger than a bud, holding the brim against the crown in front.

Tagging Major League Bases

Sam Gray's fifth straight victory over George Uhl's first defeat and the Athletics won from the Indians, to 3, taking uncontested possession of first place. Cochran accounted for three of the five runs in a double and single, while Uhl went hitless for the first time in 15 games.

The moot question of Shocker vs. the Yankees was decided for the moment when the Yankees drove their ex-player to cover and Shocker shut the Yankees absolutely out, 12 to 0. Uhl made only five hits but Sisler was one of them and carried his consecutive hitting streak to 23 games. Flashing another ninth inning up, the Giants came from the Carle, 5 to 2, Southworth waiting a moment off Dickerman with the bases full.

After Fournier had staked the Yankees to a tie by dropping Zimmerman's bat in the ninth, the Dodgers stepped out in the home half and socked away for three successive singles and won, 3 to 2.

Alexander had nothing but good intentions and the Braves slugged their way to a 5 to 2 decision over the Cubs in the golden jubilee game which celebrated the fifty years of the National League's existence.

Uhl's not only pitched with distinction but his single and Ruel's double of throw to the plate staked the White Sox to a 4 to 3 victory over the Senators in the eighth.

Prate pitchers were piled up in the eighth as the Phils blew themselves to a batting rampage and won, 15 to 7. Harper, Sand and Smith hitting homers.

The Red Sox put an abrupt end to an old fashioned go as you please by going seven runs in the eighth and winning the Tigers 15 to 7.

Linens of Perennial Beauty and Hardiness at Rare Reductions

TO speak of the beauty and hardiness of Maison de Blanc linens as perennial—is to speak the literal truth. For Webster tells us that perennial means "continuing through many years."

It is this feature of Maison de Blanc linens which makes them an investment in economy even at their regular prices.

So when we reduce these regular prices throughout the month of May, as has been our custom for many years, the event becomes of more-than-ordinary importance.

THAT "JOKE ON TENNESSEE."

Noting that within a week after the Governor of Tennessee signed the bill which "forbids the teaching of evolution" in the schools the State geologist announced discoveries of prehistoric men in Tennessee which "may establish it as the 'cradle of mankind,'" the Des Moines Register says this is "a good joke on the Governor and the legislators who solemnly declared the theory of evolution to be 'untrue,'"—and further: "According to Prof. Cox, the geologist, men lived in Tennessee hundreds of thousands of years ago. According to the Legislature, it was impossible for them to have been there more than 6029 years ago, when Adam was created. Until now the scientists have supposed Europe to have been the home of the earliest races of mankind. Prof. Cox is confident, however, that the fossils in Tennessee are more ancient than any found thus far."

It rather looks as if "the joke," or a joke, is on the Des Moines Register in consequence of its hasty and curious assumption. The Tennessee law merely forbade the teaching in the State's schools that man is descended from the monkey or other early low animal forms. It did not decree that the world is only six thousand years old or forbid the acceptance of scientific evidence that man existed ages earlier. Indeed, it is not unlikely that the makers of the Tennessee law would welcome the discoveries of Prof. Cox, added to previous discoveries of a similar character, as tending to indicate that man may be as ancient as the monkey, with a parallel history instead of a record as descendant of the latter.

A DRASTIC LAW.

The Wright "bone-dry" law in Indiana undoubtedly is "the most drastic liquor law in the country," as, as reported, busy informants are now going around smelling the breath of citizens in order to denounce them and secure their conviction. Informants against any one can the more readily triumph because under the terms of the law "it is easy to 'frame' an enemy by 'planting' a small quantity of liquor in his home and then instigating a raid." An Indianapolis special to the New York Times says of the law:

Mere possession of liquor, no matter how small in quantity, unless it is for sacramental purposes or is pure grain alcohol, and no matter when it was acquired, even though bought under a physician's prescription, is now a violation of the law and carries with it a jail sentence. Under the new law it is dangerous even to think about taking a drink. It is a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment, to accept one. The purchaser of liquor is equally guilty with the seller. The fine for purchasing, selling, transporting, making or possessing is not less than $100, to which is added imprisonment running from thirty days to six months. A third conviction means prison for one to two years and the court can not suspend sentence.

It is stated that within a week no less than 250 persons have been convicted and sent to jail. In consequence the extremists are "jubilant," the moderates are startled, and the opponents of the law denounce it as "vicious" and as instituting "a new reign of terror." It is scarcely surprising to read that the "liberals" declare that "neither Siberia nor any country in the world ever saw a more drastic infringement of the rights of the home."

That was a most unusual speech made in Philadelphia the other night by James M. Beck, the retiring Solicitor General of the United States. It is an almost unprecedented thing for a prominent official of the government who realizes that he is about at the end of his political career to take the world into his confidence by publicly proclaiming that the ambition of his life to be Secretary of State had been thwarted three times. Most men keep such things to themselves—that is to say most men who have experience in the trying school at Washington.

The announcement from Florida that Brother Bryan has decided to resign his position as Governor for a real estate firm was not received with very good grace by a number of Democrats here who hoped that he had at last found a real career and that what was left of the party of Jefferson and Jackson might be reorganized without his assistance. Now they realize that their optimism was misplaced and such hopes as they entertained for the future have been blighted.

A THOUGHT ON GOTITRE.

Many of our surgeons are now suggesting that there are forms of gotitre that do well without the use of the knife, and that care and close supervision may cause the disappearance of the gotitre.

They point out that many of these cases are due to infection from something that has got into the system, or something that the system itself is manufacturing. Usually from the waste matter in intestine.

They point out further that these poisons, being in the blood, that when the blood goes to the thyroid gland, thyroid has to do two things. First, it has to get from this poisoned blood the materials to keep up its own structure, and second, it has to manufacture its secretion or juice, also from the poisoned blood.

It is not surprising therefore that the structure of the thyroid gland itself becomes changed. Instead of having its normal walls, or cell walls, it has inflamed walls, which, when they recover from the inflammation, have a lot of fibrous tissue replacing the natural tissue.

This means that less of the juice making structure is left. And then with its structure made imperfect, the imperfect or poisoned blood from which to manufacture its juice, you can see that the juice itself will not be normal, and therefore will not do its work properly, its work of regulating various functions of the body.

Now what I want you to get from this, is that not only is the thyroid getting this kind of blood circulating through it, but also every other organ in the body is doing likewise.

What kind of muscle tissue, bone tissue, liver or other tissue is likely to be made, when the blood is in this condition?

I am thinking even more seriously of the brain tissue, which guides everything, and yet must have its delicate cells manufactured likewise from this infected blood.

It is wonderful to think that Nature carries on for you just the same, and everything functions to some extent. But you can readily see that with a handicap like this, a little trouble is bound to occur, and this little trouble may be in a serious place.

Radio Talk on The Zero Hour

In a health talk broadcast from Station WGY, Dr. Bertrand E. Roberts, epidemiologist of the state department of health, compared the neglect to summon a physician promptly for certain diseases to delay in going over the top exactly at the zero hour. Both he said had fatal results. He particularly mentioned diphtheria and stated that if antitoxin is given in sufficient quantity on the first day of illness, death from diphtheria almost never occurs; if given on the second day, recovery usually but not always results; but each additional day's delay in the administration of antitoxin lessens materially the patient's chances of recovery.

"Now and again during the Great War," said Dr. Roberts, "there came to the men in the first line trenches that fateful time known as the zero hour. It was the time when at a given instant they were to go 'over the top.' Those who neglected to act quickly and effectively when the zero hour came were often singled out for death at the hands of the enemy.

"The Great War is finished, but in times of peace there are still zero hours—hours when prompt, efficient action may save life, while delay or ignorance may be fatal.

"The listeners-in will immediately think of those accidents where a little knowledge of first aid might save life—cases of drowning, wounds, electrical shock, poisoning, and the like. Such situations do arise, and I have only praise for the efforts made by various agencies to increase the knowledge and skill of men, women and children in applying the principles of first aid. This good work should have every encouragement.

"But there are other situations more frequent than accidents, when opportunities come for saving life, where delay is just as dangerous. My time is too short to mention them all. They arise in certain diseases which respond to treatment if taken early, but which are likely to be fatal if neglected. Such are diphtheria, appendicitis, epidemic meningitis, pneumonia and others. As a rule the symptoms in most of these are so severe that there is little delay in summoning a physician. In diphtheria, however, this is not true. At the beginning, diphtheria may cause little discomfort, yet in no disease is early treatment more important or the effect of prompt treatment more remarkable. Unfortunately, however, hundreds of children in the state of New York and thousands in the country at large, die from diphtheria every year. The chief reason for this tremendous sacrifice of our boys and girls is that their parents have failed to call a physician early enough. In this disease 'early enough' means immediately.

"Now what should make a parent suspicious of diphtheria? Briefly, any one of these three symptoms: Sore throat, croup, difficult breathing.

"Many sore throats are not diphtheria, but no one except a physician is qualified to decide as to the all-important diagnosis. Sometimes no patches can be seen in the throat, yet diphtheria may exist. Sometimes the child may feel little discomfort, yet he may die if treatment is delayed.

"Croup, too, may be due to other causes, but if it is caused by diphtheria, it is one of the most dangerous conditions known. Associated with this form of diphtheria is difficulty breathing. If this occurs, the child may choke to death within a few hours. In this type of diphtheria there may be no sore throat at all.

"Therefore, with any of these three conditions—sore throat, croup, difficult breathing—take no chances. If diphtheria is present, your physician can use a wonderful remedy, antitoxin. The state department of health supplies it without charge to all physicians in the state.

"Prevention is, of course, better than cure and the best plan of all is to have your child protected against diphtheria by injections of toxo-antitoxin. These injections are harmless and may be given at any time after your child is six months old. They usually give complete protection for many years, probably for life.

"But if you have neglected to protect your child in this way, any sore throat, any croupiness or any difficulty in breathing is a warning signal which it may be fatal not to heed; they announce the zero hour when delay may be regretted for a lifetime."

MARQUIS D'ARGENSON.

Marquis d'Argenson was the first man to organize a municipal police system along modern lines. He died in Paris 204 years ago. He was a native of Venice, and first achieved fame in that Republic, where he was a state secret agent.

In 1697 he went to France and became the head of the police department of the French capital. Coming of a high family he was considered to have degraded himself by accepting this post, but he soon raised the office to his own level. The Genardes of Paris were made into a highly efficient force, and Argenson also formed a body of secret agents, such as would be now called detectives. Later he laid the foundation for the French Secret Service, sending spies to all the countries with which France might become involved in war. The system of international espionage inaugurated by Argenson was perfected by Karl Steiber, who organized the Prussian secret service and sent thousands of his men into Austria and France prior to Prussia's wars against these countries.

JANE DE BELLEVILLE.

Was the wife of Oliver III, lord of Clisson, and she has the distinction of having, single handed, carried on warfare against a French king. Philip de Valois, king of France, having caused her husband to be beheaded in 1343, on unauthenticated suspicion of correspondence with England, Jane sent her son, a boy of twelve, secretly to London, for safety. She then sold her jewels, fitted out three vessels, and attacked all the French ships she met. She made descents on Normandy, took possession of castles and set them on fire. Jane de Belleville was considered the most beautiful woman in Europe, and she led the attacks in person, with drawn sword in one hand and a torch in the other. She commanded and enforced acts of the greatest cruelty in her thirst for vengeance against Philip.

PRAYERS FOR PEACE.

The first time in American history that the people of the United States were urged by a president to pray for peace in foreign lands, was early in the World War, when President Wilson proclaimed a "Peace Sunday."

The first national day of prayer in the United States was observed 127 years ago today, May 9, 1798, by proclamation of President John Adams. At that time the United States and France were engaged in a controversy, and Americans were called on to pray for the continuance of peace. In 1815, when the United States was about to make war on Algiers, President Madison proclaimed a day of prayer. During the Civil War three presidential proclamations were issued appointing days of prayer for peace. These were the last of such observances until Wilson issued his proclamation in the autumn of 1914.

In 1865 President Johnson called upon the people to pray for Abraham Lincoln, and in 1881 President Arthur proclaimed a day of prayer to mark the burial of President Garfield.

Transportation by Bus Growing

$200,000,000 Invested in 60,000 Vehicles Carrying Three Billion Passengers Annually—Cities of Future Will Rely Mainly on the Bus.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 9.—Motorbus transportation has grown from an industry hardly taken seriously in 1917 to a public utility with an investment of $296,000,000 in more than 60,000 vehicles transporting 3,000,000,000 passengers annually. John A. Ritchie, president of the Omnibus Corporation, points out in the current issue of Bus Transportation. He foresees further tremendous growth of the industry, stresses the low investment required to bring in each dollar of gross revenue in motorbus transportation and points to 3,000,000 miles of highways in the United States as one indication of the huge scale on which the bus one day will be called upon to serve the public.

"No other country in the world has such enormous possibilities for the increase of efficient transportation as ours, and this possibility is to be realized," Mr. Ritchie says. "Transportation, like other industries, is being affected by a revolutionary process toward better things. The evolution consists not so much in making way with the old as taking advantage of the new. With upward of 25,000 miles of intercity federal aid highways being improved annually; a clearer and better understanding of what the motorbus can do for the steam and electric railways, and the unlimited field that exists in growing villages and towns—the cities of tomorrow—for transportation facilities, the potentialities for future development are almost without end."

Growth Inevitable.

"With a required investment of four dollars in street railways to secure one dollar of annual gross revenue, as against an investment of about $1.25 in motorbus systems to secure each dollar of annual gross revenue, with no power houses, transmission lines or underground connection being needed," Mr. Ritchie adds, "the growth of motorbus transportation is as inevitable as the seasons."

Of the 3,000,000 miles of highways in the United States, 470,000 miles are hard surfaced, the transportation executive says, recalling that the development of this hard surface mileage has been the accomplishment of less than fifteen years. At the present time, he shows $500,000,000 in road construction is in progress under federal authority alone. The authorized bond issue of states and counties in the United States was $1,379,762,000 on January 1 of this year, as against $1,201,910,000 at the opening of 1924.

Railroads can adopt the motorbus as an auxiliary in connection with economies desired in freight and passenger terminal operation, Mr. Ritchie says. The tendency in railroad operation, he adds, is to move the terminals to less expensive districts, completing transportation to destinations of passengers by motor coach or taxicab, and of freight shipments by motor trucks. The arrangement is cited by the writer as resulting in a reduction of both fixed charges and operating expenses, as well as a lessening of congestion in crowded streets.

272,000 Busses in 1931.

The writer cites the bus publication as authority for the prediction there will be 272,000 motorbuses in operation in the United States in the next six years, the vehicles distributed about as follows: New York and Pennsylvania, 15,000 and more; Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and Texas, 10,000 to 15,000; Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia and California, 7,000 to 10,000; Massachusetts, New Jersey, Virginia, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Minnesota, 5,000 to 7,000 busses; Maine, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Florida, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Washington and Oregon, 2,000 to 5,000; Vermont, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Nevada and Rhode Island, up to 2,000 busses.

"The villages and towns with no means of transportation," Mr. Ritchie writes, "form an unlimited field for the motor coach, and as these towns grow the motor coach will become the chief means of transportation in the cities of tomorrow. In one state alone, California, there are 478 communities where motor coach service is the only means of transportation."

The Great Jam.
Backed in the huge oval was the colorful crowd, jammed in with scarcely room to breathe. Row on row, layer on layer, the crushing mob was packed in, packed in, as some one said, like sardines—sardines—and yes, the funny part of it is that they were sardines.

REV. J. M. BENNETT TO SUPPLY PULPIT HERE

The Rev. James H. Bennett has been secured to supply the pulpit of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church for the month of August, to take the pastor's place during the vacation period. The Rev. Mr. Bennett is an unusual man in many respects and is considered an outstanding preacher. He is one of the younger members of the New York Conference, being admitted only six years ago. Mr. Bennett has had business training and a successful business career before entering the ranks of the ministry. Those who know him are not surprised that he has made rapid advancements in the conference. He started at Sugar Loaf, Orange county, where he served three years and then went to Hudson N. Y., where he served until the last session of the conference held in Clinton Avenue Church when Bishop Wilson appointed him to St. Andrew's Methodist Episcopal Church of New York city, one of the most influential churches in this conference. Senator Royal S. Copeland is a member of the official board and one of the active men of that church.

The Rev. Mr. Bennett is well known in Kingston having preached in Clinton Avenue Church on former occasions. He also preached at the Church of the Comforter and the Church of the Redeemer on Conference Sunday.

Get Your Money's Worth

It matters little how much you get for your old car if your new one lacks many of the important essentials of a strictly modern automobile. Get a fair price, of course, for your old car but insist that the new one have four-wheel brakes—Duco finish—six-cylinder L-head engine—Fisher Body—balloon tires—centralized controls—Fisher V. V. one-piece windshield. Oakland gives you these essentials at no added cost. Check Oakland quality and completeness against the Oakland price. You will find Oakland buyers get an advanced motor car and a generous surplus of value.

Reason Enough

Newspaper space is the complete medium of advertising.

Complete, because it will accomplish all things that good advertising may be expected reasonably to accomplish.

It is not an adjunct or a supplement to any other kind of advertising.

For the national advertiser, it insures rapid and thorough retail distribution. Retailers want newspaper-advertised merchandise, because newspaper advertising sells goods.

That is why the bulk of all advertising appears in the newspapers.

There are other reasons for the supremacy of newspaper advertising, but none so important as this—

It sells merchandise over the counter.

Go Up Into These Mines

One usually thinks of mines as deep and far from the surface of the earth. But in South America many of the most famous mines are not only deep but also high in the air, being situated in the lofty ranges of the Andes. At this place, where one of the largest and richest copper mines in the world is being worked by an American copper corporation, the mine is 1,000 feet deep and more than 14,000 feet above sea level. To reach it from Lima one crosses a mountain pass by railroad at an elevation of more than 15,000 feet above sea level. One of the newest Peruvian copper mines is operated at the bottom, the shafts working upward inside the mountain toward veins which rise vertically.

Why we recommend Barrett Roofs—

Because many roofs of this type are in good condition today after 40 or more years of service. (We like to stand back of durability that is proved and not merely estimated.)

Because the majority of these old Barrett Roofs have not cost their owners one cent for maintenance.

Because of moderate first cost and freedom from maintenance expense, Barrett Pitch and Felt Roofs are the most economical it is possible to build.

Factories in America Small

Chart Prepared by National Industrial Conference Board Shows That Factories Operated in America Small and Not Even Medium.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 9.—Who controls American industry? How many really big factories are there? Is the majority of plants of medium size? What portion of industry is owned by corporations?

The bulk of the 196,267 manufacturing establishments enumerated in the 1920 U. S. census, to be exact, 93.2 per cent, employ 100 or less workers each. The majority, 71 per cent, have only from 1 to 20 employees on their payroll.

Only one per cent of all plants employ more than 500 wage earners each, but together these plants have on their payrolls 32 per cent of all industrial workers.

Three-tenths of this one per cent of all establishments employ more than 1,000 each, and have working for them nearly one-fifth, or 19.7 per cent, of all wage earners in industry.

That, contrary to widely prevailing impression, there are proportionately so few very large concerns, and that the majority of factories are small, not even medium sized, is graphically shown in a chart just prepared by the National Industrial Conference Board, 247 Park avenue, New York, based on the 1920 census.

On the other hand, the chart shows that only 3.7 per cent (7,333) of the 196,267 plants covered by the census, turned out more than half, or 59 per cent, of the value of all manufactured goods, totalling $43,653,282,833 during the census year.

Most of the industrial establishments of the country are under corporate control, and corporate ownership of industries is steadily on the increase. According to the chart, 86.5 per cent of all wage earners in factories were working under corporate management in 1919, as against 70.6 per cent in 1904; likewise the value of manufactured products turned out by corporations increased from 73.7 per cent in 1904, to 87.7 per cent in 1919.

In the census figures, each plant having an individual manager is counted as a separate unit, whether owned jointly with some other plant or not. In a few cases, where two plants are located closely together, and under the same management, they are counted as one.

FABRICS TAKE NO HEED OF THE CALENDAR

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

At the beginning of the fall and winter season, if one can remember their fashion lessons so far back, there was a good deal of talk about velvets—more, as it turned out, than they have merited. Now with summer approaching, tardily but still surely, velvet has become of great importance, and is seen about town in pleasant companionship with Milan, Bangkok, Balbunt, and other popular straws, not to mention sheer hair braid.

The velvet coat has also won a place for itself, unseasonable though it may sound, and there seems to be no very good reason why an all-velvet hat, made on sports lines, should not be as comfortable as a felt one.

A Midsummer Dinner Dress of Metal Lace and Embroidery.

It must be conceded that one selects materials, even furs, with no thought for their contribution to either heat or cold. Velvet evening gowns are not new for summer or southern wear, and, of course, no one criticizes a tulle or sheer chiffon gown on the night of a blizzard—or one of metal lace on a mid-summer night.

There has been, for some time, every indication that lingerie efforts are gaining in favor, and now one feels justified in this early prophecy, since there are lingerie tunics and lingerie frocks, while dresses of several kinds have lingerie trimmings—even redingote types opening over a lingerie slip. Even embroidery is one of the favored surges.

Fear Clash on
Joan D'Arc Day

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, May 9.—What was termed in police circles as "extraordinary precautions" were taken by the prefect of police today to prevent a clash between Communists and Royalists tomorrow when all France will celebrate as national holiday the anniversary of Joan D'Arc the woman whose spiritual vision saved France from the enemy years gone by.

Royalist organizations were planning a monster demonstration despite the government's order prohibiting one. Paris buildings already are gay with flags and bunting.

Acting in behalf of the government, Premier Poincaré and Minister of the Interior Abraham Scramuzza will place a wreath on the Joan D'Arc statue.

Someone seeing the huge volume of smoke pouring out of the opening became excited and turned in an alarm from Box 18 to which the firemen responded.

In memory of Daniel T. O'Brien, who departed this life 5 years ago today.

When the evening shades are falling
And we're sitting all alone,
In our hearts there comes a longing,
If only you could come home.
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We did not think your death so near.
We saw you suffer, we heard your sighs,
With aching hearts and weeping eyes.
We saw you sinking down by hours,
We could not stop death's awful power.
But now you calmly sleep and rest,
All pains, all aches, all suffering past.
Though from you we had to part,
Your memory still dwells within our heart.
Never to be forgotten.

New York, May 9.—The low priced motor stocks, a few of the oils and accessories and specialty stocks featured early trading in the stock market today. Traders switched from the utility stocks to the motors and oils. Railroad stocks were compelled to shift for themselves and prices of leading shares in this group were fractionally lower. Trans-Continental Oil monopolized attention in the low priced oils.

The tone of the market was strong. After early irregularities, the gas company stocks resumed their advance.

Willis Overland and Pierce Arrow Common and Preferred, Hudson, Studebaker, Dodge Preference stock and Class A, Continental Motors, Mack Trucks in the motor division, and United States Rubber and Stewarts Warner in the accessories, were all inclined to higher price levels on active trading.

An increase of 20 cents a barrel in Smackover heavy crude oil was a favorable factor in the oil stocks, and prices of Standard and independent oils were steady.

American Woolen Preferred advanced nearly two points in further recovery from its recent slump. U. S. Steel American Can and other industrial leaders were comparatively inactive but firm, as also were the bulk of the equipment, copper and specialty stocks. United States Realty pushed through its former high price record and sold up to 14 1/2. Mack Trucks was strong on rumors of buying for General Motors interests. American Sumatra Tobacco Preferred sold up to 51 for a gain of four points. Radio advanced on short covering.

Railroad stocks sold off at the end of the first hour.

Outside markets were steady; foreign exchange markets were irregular.

MAY MEETING OF THE Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY

The May meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., was held on Friday. The devotions were in charge of the Rev. Lucas Boeve.

Some of the annual reports were read and the president, Mrs. Longyear, announced that nearly all the chairmen of committees were holding over, only two or three changes having to be made. She had appointed Mrs. George DuBois, chairman of the II-Y boy's supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Safford extended an invitation to the auxiliary to hold their June meeting at "Glenford Hillside" their summer camp about fourteen miles out of Kingston. This was enthusiastically accepted and plans made to charter a bus or busses for the trip. The meeting will be held on the regular meeting day, Friday, June 12th, or if stormy, the next day, on the 13th, consisting of Mrs. L. S. Coe, Mrs. M. Shultis, Mrs. G. H. Nessage and Mrs. L. W. Satterlee was appointed to look after refreshments and other details.

Miss Genevieve Main rendered two piano solos, "Rustling of Spring" by Sindig and "The Butterfly" by Grieg. Refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

LOS ANGELES SIGHTED OVER MIAMI TODAY.

Miami, Fla., May 9.—Gleaming in the sky like a great silver fish, the giant navy dirigible Los Angeles was sighted here at 7 o'clock as it passed over en route from Porto Rico to Lakehurst, N. J.

The ship executed a wide semicircle over the aviation field to the west of Hialeah, and then swept over the city, heading north while whistles on tugs, steamboats and factories gave it a salute.

Thousands of people on the streets and on top of houses stopped their work to watch it glide through the air.

Vast Wealth Easily Carried in Pocket

Gems represent a value so highly concentrated that it is possible to carry a million dollars worth of precious stones in a waistcoat pocket. Though the diamonds of the world probably have a value of $5,000,000,000, the African yield since 1889, according to Dr. George F. Kuiz, in the Engineering and Mining Journal-Press, has been only about 14 metric tons, and with the diamonds from all other sources, the world's production in the last 35 years may have been 25 tons—an average of only about 30 pounds a week.

The profitable sapphire mines of Montana have produced since their discovery in 1900 not more than one or two tons. The total yield of Burma rubies has been not more than a ton or so. In extreme values natural precious stones have ranged up to $20,000 per carat, or $3,000,150 per troy ounce, for an exceptional 20-grain pearl; $3,500 per carat for a red diamond; $3,500 per carat for a white diamond; $6,000 per carat for an emerald; $4,500 per carat for a ruby, and $2,000 per carat for a sapphire.

Why Henry Went Out

It was pouring rain and dreadfully cold. He came in, kicked off his wet shoes, slid his tired feet into a pair of comfortable carpet slippers, sat down in an easy chair, drew forth his pipe, lit up and declared that nothing would make him stir from the house until next morning.

"Henry, my dear," said his wife, "did you mail my letter?"

"Of course I did, my love," he answered.

FIRE PREVENTION.

Question. When a frame building burns down, what is left? Answer—The chimney alone, because it is built of brick. Chimneys are fireproof. Why not construct the whole building of brick, that is Real Fire Prevention. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When you build, use brick exclusively. There may be a slight increase in first cost, but always a large saving in maintenance. Building brick and sand. TERRY BROTHERS CO. Tel. 1674.

Each year the Saugerties Glee Club, composed of some eighteen or twenty men, pleases its large audience by the excellence of its work; the rich quality of tone; delicate shading and realistic interpretation. This year the club was a little better than ever before and fully deserved all the praise meted out to it. Among all of the good things that they sang, the first number (following the Ode to Music) "Worship of God in Nature," by Beethoven, was one of the best, the quality of tone being excellent, the shading fine, and the entire work uplifting. "Lovely Maiden," the Slovak Folk Song, arranged by Charles M. H. Atherton, was a musical gem, as was also the "Cradle Song," a Czechoslovak Folk Song arranged by the same composer which was exquisite. W. H. Overbagh sang the solo part admirably in the first of these two numbers and Mr. Baur, the tenor soloist, gracefully took the solo part in the second owing to the illness of Dr. Keator. "Six Full Fathom of Men," by Linn Seller was a splendid man's song, and the Hunting Song by Charles Gilbert Spross was a spirited number that the men sang with zest.

Miss De Loca, contralto soloist, who sang at the last Fihaja Trio concert in Kingston, found a much better setting for her big contralto voice of wide range and peculiar quality that grew on one the longer she sang, in the larger auditorium of the church. She was at her best in the more heroic numbers: "Dawn in the Desert," by Gertrude Ross; "Brindisi," (Lucetta Gorgia) by Donizetti; "I Love Life," by Manassos; "Songs of My Dreams," by Spross and "Robin-Woman Song" (Shanewis), by Cadman. Her singing of "The Waters of Minnetonka," by Linn Seller, was full of beauty and dignity. Mendelssohn Club guests will have a real treat in the two artists who sang at Saugerties, Miss De Loca and Franklin Baur, tenor.

Mr. Baur has a very pleasing voice and knows how to use it, both in such work as "Le Reve des des Grieux," by Massenet and "The Nightingale," by Massenet, and the lighter but truly charming Irish songs he sang so well: "The Next Market Day," arranged by Hughes and "Casey the Fiddler," by Wood.

Mr. Spross's piano numbers were enthusiastically received.

In the closing number on the program, "Chorus of Spirits and Hours" (from "Prometheus Unbound") by Dudley Buck, sung by Mr. Baur, the Mendelssohn and the Saugerties Clubs, the results of Mr. Dodge's training were plainly shown and he is indeed to be congratulated as are the men who did the singing.

It was a musical production for which all to be proud of and one that was thoroughly enjoyable to music lover and musicians alike, from beginning to the last harmonious, full voiced, "To the Ocean of Splendor and Harmony!"

Very special mention should be made of the remarkably fine, sympathetic and skillful accompanying by Miss Ethel M. Schwab, who is playing with a mature appreciation of the music and a largeness of tone that makes a splendid background to the singing of the men.

The men were assisted by Miss Adelaide De Loca, contralto, and Franklin Baur, tenor, both of New York City. Charles Gilbert Spross, accompanist and pianist of Poughkeepsie, and the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston.
